

On behalf of the Rumsfeld Foundation and the Central Asia-Caucasus Institute, thank you for your interest in the CAMCA Regional Forum. We have been delighted to witness the evolution and progress of these international convenings since the inaugural CAMCA gathering in 2014 and are grateful to all who have participated and shared their insights over the years.

Though we are regrettably unable to gather in person this year for what would have been our 7th annual forum, we are pleased to provide some virtual opportunities and resources with you which will offer important perspectives from a variety of individuals focused on the region. Speakers and contributors include international experts across several sectors as well as a number of talented members of the CAMCA Network – a collection of rising leaders from throughout the region.

In today's particularly challenging environment, the need for cooperation and collaboration across the CAMCA region is of critical importance. Working together to overcome this crisis and to work toward the region's greater development and success will take engagement and connectivity across all sectors. Fostering such connectivity is a core mission of our CAMCA Forum community. We hope these resources and discussions will contribute to advancing valuable collaboration and will benefit the CAMCA Forum community and beyond.

We look forward to hosting you in person next summer in Almaty, Kazakhstan and hope that you enjoy this year's virtual opportunities.

Thank you for your continued involvement!
